

Useful Websites

http://www.historylearningsite.co.uk/russian_revolution.htm

<http://www.bbc.co.uk/history.htm>

<http://www.schoolhistory.co.uk/>

Spartacus Encyclopaedia of the Russian Revolution

Wonderful collection of biographies accompanied by descriptions of the major events. Essential.

Russia 1860-1945

Wider collection from Spartacus about Russia from 1860 - useful to put the events in perspective.

Sparknotes on the Russian Revolution

A really accessible guide to the Russian Revolution, with information on all aspects (from 1855 to 1921).

The Russian Revolution

Extensive collection of annotated internet links relating to the Russian Revolution.

The Russian Revolution of 1917

Detailed information offering background and in-depth coverage of the events during 1917. Text-heavy.

Alexander Palace

A 'time machine' offering 'every day life in a Romanov palace'. In-depth information about the Tsar's lifestyle.

Tsar Nicholas II

From the above site, a readable, balanced biography of Tsar Nicholas II. Many more links to useful material.

Lenin, Vladimir Ilyich

Extended biography of Lenin from Encyclopedia.com - covering all aspects of his life with further links.

Lenin

The Lenin Internet archive - conveniently run by www.marxists.org. Good primary source material.

Russia in Revolution

BBC GCSE history site, but coverage of the key questions makes it essential reading.

Source materials

From the Internet Modern History Sourcebook, listing of available primary sources linked to the Revolution.

1905 Revolution

Article on the causes of the 1905 Russian Revolution from the History Channel - useful but nothing further.

Civil War

Detailed two pages of information about the Russian Civil war. Good overall summary.

Russian Revolution Resources

Select list of e-texts, links and resources about the Russian Revolution. Good quality materials.